Angle: CKTV Media Productions Class

Story: The CKTV Media Productions Class from Chiefess Kamakahelei Middle School went to Atlanta, Georgia to participate in the Student Television Network, or STN, national competition. There they competed in many categories of film and documentary and came back with some amazing results. After the competition, they got to go and have some fun in Atlanta before leaving to New York to go and learn more. At New York they did all sorts of things from museums to a Broadway show. They had a lot of fun and learned a ton from their trip, but during the trip, more than half of them got sick throughout the 2 weeks. This video will go into more depth with personal opinions and more to show what they have done, it will have interviews and a few voice-overs in the style of a promotional video with a possible slideshow.
